The Blair Lynching.

The hearing of the evidence in the trial of Richard Foreman and James Roach for the lynching of Thomas Blair began at Mt. Sterling on the 17th inst. There is a large array of legal talent on either side and the case is being fought with great stubbornness. James and Jesse Blair, brothers of the man who was lynched, and Richard Roberts, his brother-in-law, were present. The commonwealth completed its evidence in chief. Barney Dale, an old negro, who has served a term in the penitentiary, was the first witness. He testified to seeing the mob take Blair from the jail. He followed and witnessed the execution.

The next important witness was John Pangburn, engineer of the electric-light works. He said Foreman came to the works the night of the lynching and ordered the lights near the jail and the trestle on which Blair was hanged to be turned out. He was positive that it was Foreman, Pangburn further said that James Roach came to him the day after the lynching and offered to sell him a watch that he said he had taken from the body of Blair. The next day Roach told him he had burned the watch. Pangburn admitted that he had told numerous conflicting stories to individuals about the lynching, but said he was not on oath when he told them.

Arthur Fitzgerald swore that Foreman said the night Blair was arrested for carrying concealed weapons that Blair, now that he was in jail, ought to be hanged and asked the crowd to go with him and hang him.

James Jones, a negro who is under indictment for horse stealing, said he recognized Foreman and Roach, Charles Wilson, chief of police; Thomas Best and George Easton as the men who came in the jail after Blair. He was unable to identify Foreman, who was sitting within eight feet of him.

H. B. Helmstein, a convict, who is serving three years in the penitentiary for housebreaking, said he recognized some of the men who lynched Blair, but his description of them did not describe the men whose names he mentioned.

LATER.—Since the above was in type the accused have been acquitted.

Neck Broken by a Kick.

A Miss Owen, living near Hickman, Ky., was killed a few days since under peculiar circumstances. She had driven to town in a cart, accompanied by a young man, to do some shopping, and was returning home when the horse attempted to run away. The young woman was kicked under the chin, the force of the blow dislocating her neck and causing instant death.

Lightning struck the spire of the Methodist church at Sturgis, splitting an oak support and slightly damaging the building.

Endorsement of Crime.

"I am for my friends right or wrong," is the sentiment that has brought our country to what it is. Kinship should be made a blessing, but here it has been made the greatest curse. Many people think it right to stand by a relative or friend no matter what he has done. It is as wicked for one's friends to violate the law as for his enemies. In endorsing a friend in crime, we simply encourage him to continue, and this is usually the result. If relatives and friends would give a young man to understand that he need expect no help from them when he gets into trouble, he will be very careful how he conducts himself. The opposite course has had much to do in making almost every criminal in the land. As long as this is done we will have trouble in the country. Nearly all of the families here have large relationships, and the evil is greater on that account. We believe the people are beginning to realize both the situation and the remedy. They are beginning to see that there is a remedy, and they are ready to apply it. The bloodshed, the incendiary fires, the violence and intimidation which they have so long suffered has become a burden too great to be borne, and they are rising up determined to endure it no longer. May they stand firm in their decision.—Jackson Hustler.

Must Stand Trial.

The court in the Fields-Atkins trial at Barbourville, has refused a continuance and forced the defense into trial, which was a severe blow, as the defendants were anxious for a continuance and have not had all their witnesses brought here. The jury has been completed. B. F. French, of Winchester, chief counsel for the defense, has arrived. Great interest is being taken in this now celebrated case, and the outcome is anxiously awaited. Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge has been employed by the defense, and arrived in Barbourville on the 19th.—Barbourville special.

CANEY, KY., April 17, 1895.—SPENCER COOPER—Dear friend: I see in a recent issue of THE HERALD that you had launched out upon your eleventh year, and as I did not know how I stood with you, I send you $1.00, and beg of you not to stop my paper as I cannot do without it. Maysville's small-pox patients will be released in a few days, and the city and vicinity will be clear from the disease.

Taking Kentucky Leases.

There is a lively fight on in the upper Big Sandy valley over the securing of oil leases, the principal participants being Greenlee & Forst, Guffey & Queen, Troutman Bros. and the Standard oil company under its various branch concerns. The latter controls about 80,000 acres but recently secured, and each of the others are good for 10,000. At the outset where cash was not acceptable outright, an interest of one-eighth in all profits was offered. Since the late excitement came on the Standard agents have been offering one eighth. They have succeeded in working up a squabble between several of the large land owners and their rival companies, and it will be no surprise to see them soon in almost sole possession of the field.

The South Still the Field.

In its weekly review of the industrial and railroad interests of the south, the Manufacturers' Record reports a number of important enterprises, and some considerable investments in southern properties by outside people. Contracts have been let by the Old Dominion construction company, of New York, for the building of 40 miles of the Chesapeake & Western railroad from Rockingham, Va., west toward the coal fields of West Virginia.

The entire property of the Alabama iron and railway company, of Sheffield, Ala., including three furnaces, with a daily capacity of 500 tons of pig iron, 70,000 acres of mineral lands, and in addition to this some large tracts of coal land and a coking plant, have been purchased by Pennsylvania people. The furnaces, which have been idle since shortly after their construction in 1880, will, it is said, be immediately put into operation and the entire property worked on a large scale. The new company will be known as the Sheffield coal, iron and steel company. The original cost of this property was over $1,500,000.

A 20,000 acre tract of farm land has been purchased in Texas by Dakota people, and it is expected that several thousand Dakota farmers will be located on it within the next year or two.
